WILD CAT DRIVES A FUGITIVE TO JAIL

Huntigton, W. V., June 9.—A wild cat was responsible for the surrender of John Bradshaw, charged with the killing of a deputy sheriff of Cabel county, according to the story he told to the jailer at the county jail here yesterday. Bradshaw recently made his get-away and after hiding out for three days and nights, decided to return to jail rather than face the unknown terrors in the mountains of West Virginia.

Bradshaw said he made up his mind to give himself up last Friday night when, as a fugitive in the mountains he was awakened by the howling of a "cat" close by. He threw his hat at the intruder, he declared, but the "bob" only arched his back, unsheathed his claws, and hissed a charge to battle, Bradshaw then beat a hasty retreat for the Cabel county jail, he said.
